WALKOVER FOR LEADERS

Wooldridge Also Withdraws From Commissioners Race.

LEAVES WICKS AND BASSETT

Who Made Runaway Races—Are Conceded Places Sought.

R. M. Wooldridge, one of the nominees of the primary election for City Commissioner, on Thursday followed the example of R. Holland and withdrew, leaving a clear field to W. R. Wicks and Dr. Frank H. Bassett.

Mr. Wooldridge's card is as follows:

To the Citizens of Hopkinsville:

After mature deliberation I have decided to withdraw from the race for Commissioner. I could only hope to win as the result of a hard fight and I do not think this would be conducive to the success of the new form of Government our people have decided to try.

In withdrawing, I wish to express my thanks and appreciation to the friends who so loyally supported my candidacy and brought about my nomination. I feel certain they will join with me in doing everything possible to further the efforts of the gentlemen who are to direct our civic affairs for the next two years, in giving us the best managed city in the country.

Yours for good government,
R. M. WOOLDRIDGE.

This insures the election of the two remaining nominees without a contest. The ticket is to be strictly non-partisan or bi-partisan. Mr. Wicks being a Republican and Dr. Bassett a Democrat. Both are young men of fine character, active, energetic and intelligent and secured their nominations free from all entanglements and they are of course justly proud of the honors in store for them without a further contest.

Hon. Barksdale Hamlett will speak at the court house this afternoon and answer the charges made against the Democratic administration by E. P. Morrow and R. P. Green, in their speeches here. This will be the principal speech of this week in the local campaign. Several speakers have been on the stump and speeches were made last night at several points in the county by Jno. C. Duffy, Ira D. Smith, Jas. Breathitt, Jr., Walter Knight, C. H. Bush and Jas. B. Allensworth. Some of these same speakers will speak at Bainbridge to-night. At all points fine interest is being shown and prospects look good for Democracy.

Prof. Hamlett should have a big crowd this afternoon.

STANLEY AND HIS MULE

Astride a mule, A. O. Stanley, Democratic candidate for governor, rode across the mountains to keep speaking engagements at Hindman and Hazard. He was accompanied by former Congressman Frank Hopkins.

PRESIDENT WILSON INDORSES STANLEY.

Washington, Oct. 22.—The President of the United States in a letter—the first he has written in behalf of any candidate for any office in any State campaign this year—expressed in the warmest terms his confident hopes for the complete success of the candidacy of Augustus Owsley Stanley, of Henderson, the Democratic nominee for Governor of Kentucky. In this letter to Senator James, addressed to him at Lexington, President Wilson makes it plain that he is following with the greatest interest the progress of the campaign in Kentucky and that he is "very much interested to observe what just grounds of confidence the party has of success."

Seldom, if ever before, it is recalled, has the President paid such a glowing tribute to a candidate, as he has done to Mr. Stanley in this letter. "My own association with Mr. Stanley has given me an impression of strength, capacity, intelligence and integrity, which makes me feel that his election as Governor of the State will constitute a triumph to which the party can look back with pride, because it is always a matter of pride to serve a great State by putting the very best man at her disposal for public service," the President writes.

TEXT OF WILSON LETTER.
The President's letter to Senator James follows:

"The White House, Washington, Oct. 20, 1915.—My Dear Senator: I have been following with the greatest interest the progress of the campaign in Kentucky and am very much interested to observe what just grounds of confidence the party has of success in your great State. My own association with Mr. Stanley has given me an impression of strength, capacity, intelligence and integrity, which makes me feel that his election as Governor of the State will constitute a triumph to which the party can look back with

ORPHAN BOY

Falls From Hay Loft and is Killed.

Perry Sap, aged 12, who made his home with Mr. William Combs, three miles north of Pembroke, while feeding Thursday morning, stepped on a loose plank and losing his balance fell into the manger below. He was buried Thursday afternoon in the Gray burying ground on the Russellville pike.

REVIVAL TO CLOSE.

Great expectations are centering in the Sunday services at the Christian church. Every day has added interest and spiritual power to the revival. Hundreds of homes in Hopkinsville are being helpfully effected by the revival. Seventy-seven people had united with the church up to yesterday. Sunday morning all who have confessed faith and been baptized will be received into the church. Sunday morning the pastor will preach on "Leaving the old Home-stand," and at night on "A Dangerous Delay." The singing will be up to the usual high excellence. Mr. and Mrs. Harding can only remain over Sunday, and Sunday night will be the last opportunity to hear them. Extra arrangements will be made to handle and seat the large crowds that are expected Sunday. Large numbers of people are coming from the country and neighboring town.

HUMAN VOICE ACROSS SEA

Arlington Talks by Wireless Telephone With Paris, France.

HONOLULU HEARS TALKING

Voice in Virginia Station Distinctly Heard in Eiffel Tower.

New York, Oct. 22.—Arlington, Va., talked by wireless telephone with Paris, France, yesterday. Honolulu also heard the operator talking from Arlington.

Announcement that the human voice had been projected across the Atlantic was made on behalf of John J. Carty, chief engineer of the American Telephone & Telegraph company, at the company's offices here. Later Mr. Carty telephoned from Chicago, confirming the announcement.

To B. B. Webb, a telephone engineer, fell the honor of being the first man to span with his voice the space between the old world and the new. Sitting in the navy's powerful wireless plant at Arlington Mr. Webb shortly after midnight asked the wireless telegraph operator to signal the Eiffel tower in Paris.

The wireless snapped out the signal and soon there came back a response. Awaiting word from Webb at the Paris end of the wireless radiation were H. E. Shreeve and A. M. Curtis, other engineers, and a group of French officers, listening with especially designed apparatus.

HONOLULU HEARS VOICE.

In Honolulu, 4,800 miles from Arlington, Mr. Eschenchied, another telephone engineer at the Pearl Harbor navy yard, also was waiting.

Webb at Arlington had a transmitting instrument but no receiving apparatus. He knew therefore that he would have to wait for the cable to confirm the success or failure of the experiment.

"Hello, Shreeve!" he shouted into the mouthpiece, "Hello, Shreeve!" He then began to count: "One, two, three, four; one, two, three, four. Goodbye!"

Late Thursday the expected cablegram came. And said that Webb's "hellos" and "good byes" had been distinctly heard in Paris and that portions of his test figures had also been picked up. At about the same time there came a message from Honolulu saying that Webb's talk had been understood in full by the receiving engineer there and that even the voice had been recognized as Webb's.

Carty said over the telephone that much experimental work will have to be done yet before telephone communication across the Atlantic becomes an every-day affair.

The French government and the navy department at Washington, he said, had made it possible to conduct the test by occasionally permitting the use of the wireless stations.

BULGARIANS SWEEPING

German Armies on Offensive at Three Widely Separated Points.

NEGOTIATE WITH GREECE

Greece Is To Be Forced To Take a Stand of Some Sort.

London, 23.—The German armies are on the offensive at three widely-separated points—against Riga and Dvinsk, in Serbia and in the Champagne district of France.

In the northeastern theatre they continued to make progress, but against the French their attacks, delivered east of Rheims, met with a complete repulse, as did those of previous days.

Although it was expected the Austro-German onslaught in the north would be the most formidable, as a matter of fact the Bulgarian attack against the Serbians through the valleys from the east are proving the most dangerous. It is definitely settled that the Bulgars have cut the Saloniki-Nish railway, driving a wedge between the main Serbian army and the Anglo-French forces landed at Saloniki.

There is another railway, which, branching off at Uskup, runs up the western side of Serbia, but it is a considerable way around and, besides, another Bulgarian army, approaching Kumanova, is threatening the junction at Uskup.

With the rapid sweep eastward of the Bulgarians, the people of the allied countries are watching with keenest interest negotiations between their governments and Greece. These negotiations are being carried on by the British foreign office in behalf of the allies. Having failed to convince Greece that it was her duty to abide by the Serbo-Greek treaty and hold Serbia, the allies have made a fresh offer to that country, including cession by Great Britain of the island of Cyprus. This offer and an outline of possible financial help is now being considered by the Zaimis cabinet.

Should the negotiations fail, it is expected that Greece will be asked to demobilize or clearly define her attitude.

Conversations are also proceeding with Rumania, through, it is understood, the French foreign office.

Meanwhile all the belligerents realize that the best way to influence the neutral states is to win a big victory. Austria, Germany and Bulgaria are trying for this in Serbia, Germany in Courland and France, Italy in Tyrol and Trentino and Russia near Slonim, which roughly, is the center of the eastern front, Volhynia and Galicia. Except for the German attack in France, all these are meeting with more or less success.

NEGRO KILLED BY CARS

Asleep Near Track and Struck on Head by Car Step.

Willie Thomas, col., aged about 21, was killed by an Illinois Central train shortly after noon Wednesday, near Green's Crossing, six miles west of the city. Thomas was lying by the track asleep, with his head between two cross-ties and as the train passed, it is supposed, he attempted to arise, when his head was struck by a step of a coach and he was killed instantly. The body was taken to Gracey and was in error near that place.

Thomas made his home in the Elgoten neighborhood. It is not known where he intended going or how he happened to be in the neighborhood where the fatal accident occurred.

INFECTION IS FATAL

Bite of Fly Deadly to All Human Beings.Fatal Sleeping Sickness, So Dreaded in Africa, Has Been Traced to the Tsetse Fly—Wild Game a Source of Danger.

The wiggly little things shown in the picture that accompanies this article are the creatures that cause the dreaded "sleeping sickness," or na-gana, so common in Central Africa.
Sir David Bruce, who more than any other man, has studied this disease and its causes, delivered four lectures on it before the Royal Lodge of Physicians in London in May.

The creatures that cause the disease are called trypanosomes. There are many types or species, some more plentiful in one region, some in another; but all have the same general form. They multiply in the digestive organs of the tsetse fly. This bites human beings and animals, and the trypanosomes pass into their blood and infect them, just as the microbes of malaria and yellow fever are carried by mosquitoes.

Not all tsetse flies are infected, for Sir David Bruce says that "if a man is bitten by a tsetse fly in the sleeping sickness area of Nyassaland it is 500
to 1 against his taking the disease, since only 1 in 500 flies is infective
with the specific parasite."

But if a man be bitten by an infected fly it is almost certain that he will die within three or four months.
No cure has yet been discovered and no human being has yet recovered, though 83 per cent of oxen recover.

The wild game of Central Africa is heavily infected, and these buffalo, antelope, etc., are the reservoir of the Trypanosoma Gambiense, the Parasite That Causes Sleeping Sickness

in Nyassaland, Magnified About 70x Diameters.

disease. The only way to stamp out an epidemic is to remove the whole human population to a region that is not infected with tsetse flies, and, "if it be desired to go a step further and render the sleeping sickness area inhabitable, then clearing and cultivation must be resorted to," for there is little doubt that when the wild game is driven away it takes the danger with it.

USEFUL WORK FOR SOLDIERS

Standing Army Could Be Employer
During Time of Peace in Construction of Good Roads.

(By JOHN NELSON, Chicago.)

The soldier is and probably will be for some time a necessary member of society until the world can comprehend the brotherhood of man and its people become world patriots in place of bigoted national patriots. Until that time comes let us make our soldiers more productive and give them enough remuneration so that they can live and patronize the industries of the country as American citizens should.

This country needs good roads to reduce the high cost of living by reducing the cost of transportation between the producer and the consumer. Why not let the soldiers spend part of their time building roads? The benefit from such work would be great and the country could well afford at least to double soldiers' pay if half of their time was devoted to this. The regular equipment of the army, such as tents and tools, could be utilized in this connection. The work is of such a nature that it would keep men in good physical condition for field service in case of war. There is also much other useful work that can be done in times of peace and abandoned in times of war. By making it the task of soldiers we could have a large standing army that would be a benefit instead of a burden.

With this work carried on under government control on a large scale efficiency can be developed far beyond anything in the past.

War Message Went Wrong.

An accidental crossing of telephone wires was responsible for a recent Austrian victory over the Russians near the Polish border. Officers at one of the Austrian staff headquarters were amazed while using a wire, to hear Russian words spoken. An officer conversant with that tongue was summoned and reached the telephone in time to get the most important part of a war message that was being transmitted.

The Russian order was for two battalions to attack decisively at a given hour a specified Austrian position, while three companies were to assist in a flank attack. The Austrians, knowing precisely what to expect,
merely lay in wait and "bagged" 2,000 prisoners, including the major of the battalions to whom the message had been sent.

PERFECT COFFEE POT

One That Is Guaranteed Not to Boil Over.

Ingenious invention for Which Housewives Will Be Grateful Is Shown Here—Simple in Design, but Does the Work.

A coffee pot that is guaranteed not to boil over is the ingenious invention for which C. M. Smith and M. J.
Sieringer of Brooklyn have a patent application pending. The pot's construction may best be understood by referring to the diagram, which shows it in longitudinal section. It consists of a main body (1 in the diagram)
tapering toward a narrower neck, la, over which rises a flaring top, with handle, 3, and spout, 4. The spout has an inner wall, perforated with holes, 5.

Into the top goes a drum, 6, having a flange, 8, that fits tightly in the neck, la, and is prevented from going down too far by a rim, 7. Just above this rim the barrel is perforated with holes, 9, and opposite the spout, with smaller holes, 10. It is covered by a lid.

When the coffee boils it rises in the pot, but flows through the holes, 9,
into the open space between the drum and the body of the pot. This instantly cools it below the boiling point and it flows back down through the holes and into the pot again. The coffee may even boil over the top, but it will be caught in the open space, 2, and will never spill. The liquid is poured in the usual way, the small perforations acting simply as a strainer.

DEVICE FOR CATCHING BUGS

Ingenious New York Man Has Thought Up a Contrivance That Should Account for Many Pests.

Knut George Gyllstrom, Richmond
Hill, N. Y., has patented a bug catching apparatus which should be very efficacious against the innumerable little pests that inhabit the air the latter part of the summer and the early fall. Placed in a house or public building, it ought to catch most of the insects which squeeze through the screens or zip in when the door is opened.

Mr. Gyllstrom's device consists of a bright electric light to attract the insects, placed between an electric fan and a funnel-shaped bag with an insect trap at the small end. The philosophy of the invention is simple. The bugs, lured by the light, get in the path of the fan's current and are blown into the bag, where the current,

of air maintained by the fan prevents them from escaping. Eventually, the bugs are driven into the trap, from which, of course, there is no escape.
It is to be hoped that the patentee realizes all he hopes from his device

Resourceful Woman.

Dr. Dudley A. Sargent of Harvard holds that sex is no bar to military service—that a woman would make as good a soldier as a man.

Doctor Sargent, at a tea in Boston,
said to a group of flattered, smiling
girls:

"Why shouldn't you, indeed, make as good soldiers as men? Look how resourceful you are."

"I know a young fellow who said to a girl, doubtfully:

"I consulted a palmist last evening and she told me I would marry a brunette within three months."

"The girl, tossing her golden head,
answered with a roguish smile:

"Well, I can easily be a brunette by that time, Jack."

Jealous Bride Ended Her Life.

Jealous of her husband every time he even smiled on a baby, jealous of his office work because it took him from her side, jealous of him even if he walked alone on the street, Mrs.
Adele Diaz, a pretty Spanish bride of New York city, worked herself up into such a state of mind that she committed suicide one day after finding her husband's revolver.

CROSSED WIRES

By ELLIS TOWER.

"It was a long, long letter, and it began:

Dear Jack:
Your note came today. It made me feel anew how much I miss you. . . . Dearest one in all the world, when you know that I love you why should I not speak of my love? Why should I let conventionality hold me back when I am starving with my heart hunger? . . . I can say it without even asking that you love me as I love you, or praying that the future may in some miraculous way bring us together. I only pray that my love for you may carry with it some blessing. Good-by. JILL.

Miss Curzon finished this letter and read it carefully through. Then she laid both arms on the table, dropped her head between them and sobbed heavily. The telephone rang and the sudden noise startled her. She answered in a weak, trembling voice. The operator apologized. It was an error; the wires were crossed, and somebody else was wanted.

"Ah, yes," she moaned. "It is someone else who is wanted all the time. Love does not call me; success does not call me."

Just then she remembered that success had that day signaled her in the form of a letter from her literary agent asking whether she could supply a serial for publication to be started soon. But how could she write of love, when her own hopeless love was crushing her heart? She sat down and wrote a curt note to the agent stating that it would be impossible to send the story for several weeks.

The telephone rang again. Another apology—the wires were crossed again. She hung up the receiver with a jerk and burst into nervous sobbing. Hearing her sister's voice in the hall, she hurried the two letters into envelopes and concealed them. After good-nights had been said and she was alone again she dropped the letters down the chute and went to her room to sit by the open window until far into the night.

During the night a storm came and the next day was so cold and rainy that all the hotel guests were kept indoors. Miss Curzon was the most restless person there. Her sister's health was not improving. In fact, this damp morning showed her colorless and frail.

"Oh, I've been blind to everything but my own hopeless love!" Miss Curzon left her breakfast unattended, as remorseless thoughts rushed into her mind. "I've been selfish and idle when it was so necessary for me to be busy. I should never have sent either of those letters last night. Jack will despise me for a foolish, forward woman, and Barnaby will use some other writer's serial. Will I never learn to be rational?" To crowd these thoughts from her mind she plunged into work.

For the next few days she worked hard, but all that she wrote was unsatisfactory. Fighting remorse and smothering regret did not aid in good work. The letters from New York came to her on the fourth day. One was in Jack's irregular, boyish handwriting and the other had Barnaby's address in the upper corner. She tried to ignore her trembling hands and poring heart as she opened Jack's letter. On one page of perfectly correct, printed notepaper she read just this:

My Dear Jill:
First let me congratulate you upon having arrived in your new home. . . . You can tell me all the news when you call for serials. I opened this letter, expecting to find a nice, chummy letter like the talks we used to have at the lake. Instead, I found this brief note to Mr. S. Barnaby, evidently some publisher. I'm returning it, as the street address is not given and I failed to find him in the city directory.

The wires must be crossed, and the publisher got my message. So send me another one, won't you? I shall not forget our good times together and shall hope to hear from you often.

Sincerely,

JACK.
The letter dropped at Miss Curzon's feet. She was chalky white and her voice was a hoarse whisper. "What have I done? How can I ever explain to Barnaby?" Almost holding her breath, she resolutely opened his letter. As she read it she dropped into a chair, spent with relief. This was his letter:

My Dear Miss Curzon:
You failed to inclose a letter of explanation, and I think you also failed to inclose part of the manuscript for the first installment of your "Jack and Jill" story. I take it that you want my opinion, though, so here it is: Your plot will have to be a corking good one if you make a serial in the form of letters. Let me know just what your idea is about this.

I remember that you told me typewriters were an unknown quantity up there where you've been resting, but I am returning your manuscript herewith and hope to receive your regular copy for this and the remainder of the serial as soon as you can get it to me. Yours truly,

H. BARNABY.

The afternoon mail carried out this note:

My Dear Jack:
I'm afraid you wonder how one so stupid as I am to send the wrong letter to a publisher ever manages to get into print. The note I wrote you has been returned by the publisher, but it's state new, so I'm writing another to repeat my cordial wishes that the inclosed kodak pictures may be pleasant reminders of our good times at the lake. I've missed you dreadfully, and was delighted to have your note last week. Pleasantly, JILL.

A messenger boy at the hotel turned in this message late that night:

B. Barnaby,
Care Authors' Club, New York:
Serial started on different plan. Have sent for typewriter. Will send manuscript in one week.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

There never has been a time when a newspaper was more needed in the household. The great war in Europe has now entered its second year, with no promise of an end for a long time. These are world-shaking events, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, has been compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues.

The Presidential contest also will soon be at hand. Already candidates for the nomination are in the field, and the campaign, owing to the extraordinary character of the times, will be of supreme interest. No other newspaper will inform you with the promptness and clearness of the Thrice-A-Week edition of the New York World.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Hopkinsville Kentuckian together one year for $2.65. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

Got the Same Letter.

Two men with the same name and both members of the same club found a letter in their box at the club. The wrong man opened it first. It was just a little dun from a tailor, who threatened to do everything but murder. He knew the missive didn't belong to him, so put it in the box. The next night the wrong man and the right man happened to come to the club at the same time. Both went to the letter box, the right man reaching it first. The wrong man stepped back because he didn't want to embarrass the right one. But not he; he was there with the nerve. The right man read the epistle over very carefully twice. Then he tore it into bits, which he tossed carelessly into the nearest cuspidor, with a deprecating smile. "Poor little girl," said the right man. "How she loves me."

PURELY PERSONAL.

Miss Garvie Wallace, of near Cedona, is spending the week-end with Miss Rena Humphries, on 15th street.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Hopson a few days ago made a trip in their car from their home near this city to Eastern Tennessee. They went by Clarksville and Nashville and then proceeded via Lebanon and Werten to Smithville, 150 miles, arriving in the night. In a letter to her mother, Mrs. Fannie C. Hille, Mrs. Hopson told of the charming trip they had through the mountains. On one part of the trip they encountered 15 toll gates, that charged 25c each, something unheard of in this part of the country. They spent a week visiting friends at Smithville. The best road found was between Clarksville and Springfield, Tenn. They made short visits enroute at Nashville, Lebanon and other places where they had friends.

Mrs. Franklin and children, of California, who had been on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bush, for some time, left Tuesday for their home. Mr. Bush accompanied them as far as St. Louis.

Joe Day and his bride, nee Miss Louise Wood, who eloped to Clarksville and were married Saturday, have located in Owensboro, where Mr. Day has accepted a position as book-keeper.

Meedames Walter Miller and Ollie Tompkins, of Cadiz, are guests of Mrs. Frank Clark, near the city.

Dr. J. W. Harned has gone to St. Louis in answer to a telegram announcing the illness of his sister, Mrs. H. R. Price.

NOTHING FROM SMEEDING

Rumor of His Arrest in St. Louis not Verified.

The place made vacant in the Kress store by the unceremonious departure of E. C. Smeeding Tuesday evening has been filled temporarily by Mr. Shields from Clarksville. No definite information has been received from him since he left. Before leaving he withdrew his deposit from a local bank. Wednesday morning his wife, before leaving the city for her home in Buffalo, called at the Bank and was told that her husband had closed his account there.

Smeeding and a young woman boarded the northbound train at Crofton and it is believed changed cars at Nortonville. There was a rumor on the streets Thursday that Smeeding had been arrested in St. Louis, but this could not be traced to any reliable source. It is a matter of considerable speculation as to what, if any, offense he has committed. It is believed he is still somewhere in Kentucky.

PRETTY SCHOOL MA'AM

Is Captured By Trigg County Farmer in Clarksville Wedding.

Mr. I. C. Glover, of Wallonia, and Miss Helen Wilbur Redd, a daughter of Mr. J. W. Redd of this city, who is a school teacher in Trigg, Wednesday motored to this city and from here went to Clarksville, where Rev. Ryland Knight, pastor of the Baptist church, married them at the Arlington hotel.

They returned the same day to the groom's home near Wallonia, where they will reside.

Mr. Glover is a prosperous young farmer. His bride is an attractive young woman who has many friends here.

COTTAGE WAS DAMAGED

House on Durrett Avenue Caught on Fire From Spark.

A cottage on Durrett avenue, owned by Jas. T. Charlton and occupied by a tenant, was discovered on fire Thursday morning about 9 o'clock and the fire department was called out. A very quick run was made and the flames were soon extinguished. The loss was small, and we understand, is covered by insurance. The fire originated from a spark on the kitchen roof.

BIG ONE TODAY

Football Circles Excited Over Championship Contest.

What will probably be the crucial contest of the Western Kentucky Football Championship will be determined this afternoon at 3:00 o'clock when the local High School team meets Owensboro. Owensboro has always had good teams. Last year they won the championship by defeating a 20-0 defeat on the Orange and Black. This year they have shown by defeating Western Normal 51-0.

High School will make her fight every inch of the ground. Their 31-0 victory over Madisonville last Friday inspired the team with confidence and shows their rapid improvement. The game in all probability will be the hardest and fastest of the season on the local field.

Yes, today morning an enthusiastic meeting was held in the High School auditorium with music by the High School Orchestra and speeches by Alvin H. Clark, W. R. Wicks, W. A. Long, Oglesby Soyars and some of the members of the team featured in the meeting. A great deal of enthusiasm was created, and the opinion was that Owensboro will have their hands full if they eliminate Hopkinsville in the championship race.

Undergoing Treatment.

No encouraging news has been received from Mr. T. C. Underwood, who went to Louisville to be treated by a nerve specialist. He was told that a week's treatment would be required to tell whether or not his sore arm could be relieved.

WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Louisville, Ky.—"I think if more suffering women would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound they would enjoy better health. I suffered from a female trouble, and the doctors decided I had a tumorous growth and would have to be operated upon, but I refused as I do not believe in operations. I had fainting spells, bloated, and could hardly stand the pain in my left side. My husband insisted that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful I did, for I am now a well woman. I sleep better, do all my housework and take long walks. I never fail to praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my good health."—Mrs. J. M. RESCH, 1900 West Broadway, Louisville, Ky.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

RELINQUISHES CLAIM TO HER CHILD

Joel Edward Dawson Given Into Custody of His Father.

Some time ago a petition was filed in the county court by the Associated Charities praying that a certain alleged neglected infant child, Joel Edward Dawson, be turned over to the association for proper treatment and care.

Tuesday morning in county court, the mother, Mrs. Clara Dawson, who has had the custody of the child, appeared and relinquished her claim and right to the child, praying that it be turned over to her father, G. T. Dawson, who agreed to give it proper care and a home. In compliance, Judge Young entered an order giving the care and custody of the child to the father, who took it to his home at Hopkinsville, he and the mother having been separated for some time.—Henderson Journal.

BLACKMAILER FOILED

Dummy Package of Bill's is Taken by Alleged Anonymous Letter Writer.

Morganfield, Ky., Oct. 22.—P. M. Young, a wealthy resident of this city, Saturday morning received an anonymous letter demanding that he place by 8:30 o'clock p. m. $150 in $10 bills at a certain place in the first lavatory of the Capital Hotel, threatening a far greater loss to Mr. Young inside of a month if he did not do as requested.

Mr. Young placed an envelope containing blank papers at the appointed place and had two men watch. They saw Herman Wright go in and out several times, until his last entrance, when the package disappeared. Wright was arrested at a livery barn a short distance away by Marshal Charles Sellers, in a stall, the papers, minus the envelope being found there. Wright's examining trial was held Tuesday.

Luck vs. Pluck.

It is a great thing to be lucky. Some men are born lucky and are followed by luck throughout their lives. Theirs is usually a happy lot.

But there are other men upon whom fortune does not smile so brightly. What they get out of the world they get mainly through hard work, persistence and pluck. When men of this type win it is usually because, in addition to brains, energy and perseverance, their's is a long-hearted courage. They discount luck. By sheer force of character they euchre Dame Fortune, tackle her at her own favorite game and beat her.

It has been said that life does not consist of hiding a good hand, but of playing a poor hand well. Thus the man who takes fate in his own hands, counts not on good luck nor on bad luck, but bases his hopes on hard work and bull dog courage is a better man to bank on for nine tasks out of every ten set for him than the lucky man. When fickle fortune frowns, the man upon whom she has been wont to smile is too often at sea. Accustomed to the favor of the Gods, he is apt to get lost without that favor and to flounder about as a ship without a rudder, a boat without an oar.

No one can accuse our friend A. O. Stanley of being the particularly favored child of fortune. He is not a luckless hoodoo, but nine-tenths of what he has got out of the world he owes to pluck, plus native ability and diligent application.

As a barefoot boy he followed a reaper in vacation time, tying up wheat bales at fifty cents a day. As a young man he taught school to earn money to prepare himself for the law. As a young man lawyer he blazed his way to the top of the bar of Kentucky, solely on his own merits. In the legislative halls in Washington he continued to show the same driving power. Knocked back now and again, he drew breath and plunged in again. He has arisen to crisis after crisis instead of being ing overwhelmed by them.

It is better to have at the helm of the ship of state of Kentucky, a luck-conquering man of the Stanley type or a child of fortune who wins only when fortune smiles? We think the voters of Kentucky will know how to answer this question on November 2nd.

SUNG AT WINONA LAKE BIBLE CONFERENCE

"De Walls of Jericho Fell Down," which was sung by a male quintette at the Christian church last Monday night was the song success at the big Bible Conference at Winona Lake, Ind., last summer. It was sung by a chorus of twenty men, mostly trained Evangelistic Singers, Mr. Harding, who is directing the music at the revival at the Christian church being one of them. Mr. E. O. Excell, director of the big Chorus Choir of over 300 voices, took the solo part and when he, who weighs about 250 pounds, together with the 20 other men, "fell down flat" at the close of the last verse, the vast auditorium which seats thousands, shook with applause. There were many requests that it be repeated.

The Winona Lake Bible Conference is the largest in the world. Wm. Jennings Bryan is the President. The greatest preachers and public men in this and other countries appear on its platform but the one thing for which it is most noted is the wonderful spirit and atmosphere of deep reverence and spirituality which pervades the whole place. Nothing cheap or questionable appears on the program.

If interested, write Rev. Sol G. Dickey, Winona Lake, Ind., for a catalogue.

Dr. Allen Hall Quite Low.

Dr. Allen G. Hall, son-in-law of Mrs. Addie Gunn, of this place, and one of the most prominent citizens of Nashville, has been quite low at his home in that city for the past week and grave fears are entertained for his recovery. Bright's disease is the cause of his trouble, from which he has been a sufferer, for a number of years. Mrs. Jas. B. Garnett, sister of Mrs. Hall, went to Nashville, Monday.—Cadiz Record.

Plenty of Nuts.

A shipment of a carload of 1,200 bushels of hickory nuts to the New York recently left Lawrenceburg, Ky. The greater part of these were bought at prices ranging from $1 to $1.25. Last Saturday they took a sudden drop there and price was 50 cents per bushel. The crop this year is the largest ever known, so we are told by the knowing ones.

The local market is already well supplied with scaly-bark hickory nuts at prices ranging as low as $1.00 a bushel from wagons.

HARMFUL LITTLE PEST

Clover Louse Plays Havoc With Crops in the East.

Big, Green, Long-Legged Insect Has Ruined Millions of Dollars' Worth of Crops—Alfalfa Seems to Be Immune.

(By J. W. FOLSON, Illinois.)
The clover louse was, in all probability, introduced with clover and peas from Europe, where it is widely distributed and common. It is chiefly a pest on peas in the eastern part of the United States. In the middle and western states it is a pest on clover.

Ladybird Beetle—(a) Larvae; (b) Empty Pupa Skin; (c) Beetle—One of the Most Efficient of the Insect Enemies of the Clover Louse.

The aphid has done immense damage to peas and clovers. It affects especially leguminous plants, but numbers also among its food plants many weeds. The more important of its food plants are red clover, crimson clover, field pea, sweet pea, vetches (known also as "tares"), beans, lettuce, shepherd's purse, and nettle and other weeds. Alfalfa seems to be immune from attack. Thirty sweeps of the net in red clover yielded 3,000 of the aphids, while the same number of similar sweeps in an adjoining field of alfalfa gave only 30. On soy beans growing next to heavily infested clover, not a single louse was found.

Where peas are grown the aphid winters in a field of clover or on weeds (as a wingless female or as an egg), and in spring is confined to these until the peas start to grow, and then it does not get to the early varieties, though it devastates the late-sown peas. The first aphids select the youngest leaves and shoots, but eventually the lice cover the entire plant and sap out its life, rendering it unfit even for fodder.

Several years ago, in Wisconsin, the louse was noticed in a 500-acre field of peas about July 20; in less than a week all the plants were dead and brown. In Maryland the louse destroyed peas valued at $3,000,000 in one year.

The most important enemy of this louse is a common fungus, Empusa aphidis. It is widespread in the United States and Canada, and affects a great variety of aphids. It does not appear in dry weather but is common after a rain or two at any time during the growing season, but is most abundant dant under the combined influences of moisture and warmth. Then it sweeps off myriads of aphids.

The clover louse is affected directly or indirectly by a large number of insects, about thirty-three in all. The most important of these appears to be the ladybird beetle. The larvae of this insect destroy immense numbers of these aphids.

TREATING WHEAT FOR SMUT

Grain Soaked for Twelve Hours in Solution of Copper Sulphate and Water Is Effective.

The copper sulphate or "blue vitriol" method of treating wheat for smut is to dissolve one pound of copper sulphate in each 25 gallons of water used in the treatment and soak the grain 12 hours in this solution, stirring it occasionally, after which it is immersed for a few minutes in lime water made by adding ten gallons of water to one pound of fresh slaked lime. This last treatment is given to avoid injuring the power of germination of the grain.

Care for Young Animals.
The colts and calves are worth good money. It is up to the owner to make them worth the best money possible. They should not stop growing. Good shelter and feed will bring good returns.

Dry Ridge, Ky.—"I could hardly walk across the room," says Mrs. Lydia Powell, of Dry Ridge, "before I tried Cardui. I was so poorly, I was almost dead. Now I can walk four miles and do my work with much more ease. I praise Cardui for my wonderful cure." Cardui is successful in benefiting sick women, because it is composed of ingredients, that act specifically on the womanly constitution, relieving headache, backache, irregularity, misery and distress. Only a good medicine could show such continual increase in popularity as Cardui has for the past 50 years. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic.—Advertisement.

INJURY BY FIELD MICE

Ravages of Little Rodents Result in Serious Losses.

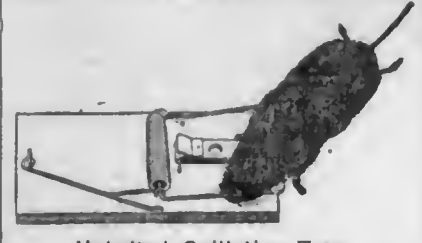

Rebels of Controlling Animals is One of Considerable Importance to Farmers and Orchardists—Plea for Eradication.

(By D. E. LANTZ.)
Short tailed field mice are commonly known as meadow mice, pine mice and mice; locally as bear mice, huck-tail mice or black mice. The term includes a large number of closely related species widely distributed over the northern hemisphere.

The runs of meadow mice are mainly on the surface of the ground under grass, leaves, weeds, brush, boards, or other sheltering litter. They are hollowed out by the animals' claws and worn hard and smooth by being frequently traversed.

Meadow mice are injurious to most crops. They destroy grass in meadows and pastures; cut down grain, clover and alfalfa; eat grain left standing in shocks; injure seeds, bulbs, flowers and garden vegetables, and are especially harmful to trees and shrubbery. The extent of their depredations is usually in proportion to their numbers.

When present even in ordinary numbers meadow mice cause serious injury to orchards and nurseries. Their attacks on trees are often made in winter under cover of snow, but they may occur at any season under shelter of growing vegetation or dry litter. The animals have been known almost totally to destroy large nurseries of young apple trees.

Older orchard trees are sometimes killed by mice. In Kansas the writer saw hundreds of apple trees, eight to ten years planted and four to six inches in diameter, completely girdled by these pests. The list of cultivated trees and shrubs injured by these animals includes nearly all those grown by the horticulturist.

Pine mice inhabit chiefly forested regions and are unknown on the open plains. Ordinarily they live in the woods, but are fond of old pastures or lands not frequently cultivated.

Their harmful activities include the destruction of potatoes, sweet potatoes, bulbs, shrubbery and trees. In the eastern part of the United States pine mice do more damage to orchards than do meadow mice, partly because their work is undiscovered until trees begin to die.

Methods of destroying field mice or holding them in check by trapping and poisoning are equally applicable to meadow mice and pine mice.

If mice are present in small numbers, as is often the case in lawns, gardens or seedbeds, they may readily be caught in strong mouse traps of the guillotine type. These should be baited with oatmeal or other grain, or may be set in the mouse runs without bait. On larger areas where mice are abundant, poisoning is the quickest means of destroying them, and even on small areas it has advantages over trapping.

RAKE FOR STIRRING ALFALFA

Side Delivery Tool Rolls Hay Up Loosely So Air Can Get Through It Without Sunburning.

The side delivery rake is about the best tool to use in stirring alfalfa. It rolls the hay up loosely so that the air can get through it without having it burned by the hot sun. Great care should be exercised in handling alfalfa so as not to lose the leaves, the most important part of the plant. They are worth as much, pound for pound, as wheat middlings, so it pays to try to save them.

Alfalfa hay can be handled in much the same way as clover, except that a little more care must be observed to prevent it from getting too dry. In handling alfalfa cut it down in the afternoon after the dew is off, let it lie until afternoon then rake into windrows with the side delivery, and either put into cocks that evening, or the next morning after the dew is off. It is preferable to let the hay do most of the curing in the cock as a little better feed can be produced in this way. It can be put into the racks when quite green and if the weather is at all favorable it will cure in a day or so and make fine hay.

RIGHT THIS MOMENT THE STORE IS AT ITS BEST

With the European armies buying two hundred million dollars worth of American Shoes and Woolen Goods in three months; with Russia buying thirty million dollars worth of Shoes at one time; with Italy buying forty millions of Suits and Overcoats in one order, when England and France buy seventy-five millions in Clothing and Blankets—and then when this year's cotton crop is only half of normal and England agrees to take near half of that—and when the dye supply is all cut off—then it's high time that our people realize that before two months have passed good merchandise will be more scarce than ever known before.

The only thing that saves us right now from a panic of high prices is the fact that there has been little demand in cities for merchandise. If a good demand for merchandise springs up in the cities, coupled with the big demand now coming from all over the South, then you may take it from us that the prices quoted today will be way below the real value. This Hundred Thousand Dollar stock was bought before any war inflation came and we pass it to our customers the same way.

Exquisite New Millinery For Fall and Winter

A Work Shoe Story That Men Should Read

Broadly speaking Men's Work Shoes are not as good as they used to be. But Anderson's speaking they are almost. Men who have enjoyed the satisfaction of our work shoes will be glad to know we arranged with several good factories last year to supply the same good shoes at the same prices. They balked a bit and we may not be able to do it next year but this is this year. Look over this and come and get yours.
